Beginner's Rocket Science This course will take you on a journey to learn what it takes to get into space. We will begin with an introduction to some basic math and physics, so you can build your first rocket. Along the way, we will discuss historical connections and discoveries, so you can better understand the process of traveling to space and staying there. Eventually you will be ready to take on a much larger mission as you work with your peers in a simulation to land a person on the moon.	$40.00

Cryptography: Secret and Not-So-Secret Codes Throughout history, cryptography has evolved from messages written on the shaved heads of servants to highly robust computer encryption. In this course, we will examine the history of cryptography, study several cryptosystems, and practice techniques for cracking those cryptosystems. In addition, we will be examining our current level of dependence on cryptography, for instance, in our banking systems and cell phones. The mathematics required to understand and implement these cryptosystems is the equivalent of four years of high school mathematics. This class is designed to appeal to both history and math/science buffs alike!	$40.00

Fantastical Futures and What They Teach Us Science Fiction is a genre that explores not only a fantastical future or alternative present, but it also plays a pivotal role in critically examining our current societies. Through literature and film, we will investigate the larger questions of what it means to exist on earth today. How are science and technology shaping our societies? What are humanity's greatest challenges? What role can science fiction play in helping us understand our own communities and ourselves, and ultimately, what it means to be human?

Digital Citizenship The focus of this course will be a fun and provocative look at how technology is changing us inside and outside of the classroom. Networks are resources that provide you with valuable information. Networking is not just about computers, cell phones, Facebook, and Twitter. Networking is also working together on assignments and finding help through services you might not have considered yet. So what are the advantages and disadvantages of all these networks around you? In this course we will address networking as a concept, not just as a technical option. You will learn how to use computer related networks such as email, cloud networking, and other non-computer related networks, that are available to you as a student, when attending CWI. Students will learn how to take responsibility of learning in both the traditional and the classroom with more technology.	$40.00

Rated (R)Reality: Exploring Controversy in Media and Society "This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes." - Morpheus, The Matrix For some, the experience of becoming a college student can be very different than what they had expected or imagined. We all hold ideas and assumptions about the way things "really are," and about how the world works. When those ideas and assumptions are challenged, it can be both uncomfortable and liberating. This course introduces students to the college experience and to ways of thinking and learning that can be both challenging and rewarding. By sociologically exploring interesting (and sometimes controversial) topics that are relevant in contemporary media and society, students will develop strategies for success in college as well as gain new and important insights into the ways in which they are shaped by - and connected to - the community, society and culture in which they live. What Are the Chances? Newspapers love to splash big headlines about death by shark, but did you realize that you are more likely to be killed by a statistician than by a shark? This topic will take a light-hearted but rigorous approach to probability, giving you the opportunity to exercise some fairly simple mathematical operations while thinking about some fairly complex ideas. The theme will be approached from a variety of disciplines, looking not only at the mathematical concepts of probability, but also at its historical and philosophical underpinnings. Don't be afraid to sign up just because your math background is shaky! All calculations will be done with calculators, and nothing is more complex than simple addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. About two-thirds of the material in this course is not covered in any other math course at CWI.

Some believe that to neglect students who have a passion for the booming gaming industry is a travesty. This course seeks to engage gamers and non-gamers alike and connect their strengths in the gaming world with those needed to succeed in college. We will examine the different sides of the argument, "is gaming a waste of time?" Students interested in gaming will be given the opportunity to evaluate their academic strengths and personality and understand how they align with world of gaming. All students will complete the course better prepared to win in college, and with good time management, students might even learn how to reserve some time to play. Modern Apocalyptic Horror Television shows like The Walking Dead, fiction like Stephen King's The Stand, and movies like I Am Legend captivate audiences and make millions in sales. These narratives offer a bleak view of the aftermath of an apocalypse, where the human race is nearly wiped out by disease, monsters, or cataclysm, and where the last survivors of humanity are forced to fight against these horrors, and often each other, to survive. Why is our culture obsessed with the idea of a prolonged, horrific apocalypse? What about the genre appeals to a wide range of people? This class will explore the apocalyptic horror genre in television, film, radio, and print. It will examine the ideas of culture, religion, technology, world events, and heroism in the genre in an attempt to uncover why we are all infected with the idea of apocalyptic horror.

Poison and Murder: Toxicology in the Age of Prohibition "Dosis facit venenum" or "The dose makes the poison." - Paracelsus The course will use case studies from the text The Poisoner's Handbook: Murder and the Birth of Forensic Medicine in the Jazz Age to both humanize scientists and to show real world applications of scientific research. Two projects during the class will reinforce these ideals by recreating simulated murder investigations. The focus of this course is to learn the beginnings of the scientific method, critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, and interdisciplinary science by studying accounts of poisoners and the scientists who caught them. Students will explore success strategies for the class through group work and research using online and real world tools provided by the college. YOLO: Existing in the Modern World You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to decide for yourself if Kierkegaard is indeed the first one with the hashtag YOLO. Idaho's Wild West: Idaho Writers and Western Myths and Stereotypes The American West conjures images of cowboys and outlaws, gold mines and uncharted wilderness, Wild West shows and Hollywood, vast, empty spaces and suburban sprawl. It has long been viewed as rugged territory where the hearty, the visionary, and the brave can claim fortune, freedom, and fame. It is a land as much myth as reality, full of contradiction and complexity. Literature has played a role in creating, perpetuating, and debunking these myths. This course will introduce you to various Idaho writers and their writings. Through their fiction and non-fiction-much of it set in the state of Idaho, we will explore the ever-changing West and analyze its many meanings. Networks are resources that provide you with valuable information. Networking is not just about computers, cell phones, Facebook, and Twitter. Networking is also working together on assignments and finding help through services you might not have considered yet. So what are the advantages and disadvantages of all these networks around you? In this course we will address networking as a concept, not just as a technical option. You will learn how to use computer related networks such as email, cloud networking, and other non-computer related networks, that are available to you as a student, when attending CWI. Students will learn how to take responsibility of learning in both the traditional and the classroom with more technology.

What Are the Chances? Newspapers love to splash big headlines about death by shark, but did you realize that you are more likely to be killed by a statistician than by a shark? This topic will take a light-hearted but rigorous approach to probability, giving you the opportunity to exercise some fairly simple mathematical operations while thinking about some fairly complex ideas. The theme will be approached from a variety of disciplines, looking not only at the mathematical concepts of probability, but also at its historical and philosophical underpinnings. Don't be afraid to sign up just because your math background is shaky! All calculations will be done with calculators, and nothing is more complex than simple addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. About two-thirds of the material in this course is not covered in any other math course at CWI.

CWID-101-062	CWID: Heroes and Villians	3	F	Lecture	McCurdy, Jana	8/24/15	12/19/15
Nampa Campus	Academic Building	301	8	27	janamccurdy@cwidaho.cc	8:00 AM	10:45 AM
Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology, and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals.

The New Dystopian Hero Dystopian stories like Divergent, The Hunger Games or The Giver are set in a time when things have gone horribly wrong in the world, and they warn about where our culture may end up if we aren't careful. In this class we will examine some of these storylines to see what kind of messages they are sending about current American values. Ultimately, we will try to decipher how these books and movies define the new American hero. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID.

I'd Rather Be Gaming Some believe that to neglect students who have a passion for the booming gaming industry is a travesty. This course seeks to engage gamers and non-gamers alike and connect their strengths in the gaming world with those needed to succeed in college. We will examine the different sides of the argument, "is gaming a waste of time?" Students interested in gaming will be given the opportunity to evaluate their academic strengths and personality and understand how they align with world of gaming. All students will complete the course better prepared to win in college, and with good time management, students might even learn how to reserve some time to play. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID.

Health Shenanigans This course will explore current fallacies related to being in a state of "good health." Students will learn how to scrutinize health information to identify fraudulent or ill-informed advertisements that claim to alter the human. People might be awed by fanciful research studies or unreasonable promises. These tactics may promote fear and devalue legitimate science. At the end of this course, students will have learned to be educated consumers, adopting skills that will lead to academic success, and improved ability to decipher the information that surrounds us. The Science of Speed Have you ever wondered what makes Usain Bolt the fastest man on Earth? How did Chris Johnson run a 4.24 second 40 yard dash? Why and how did Lance Armstrong cheat? What goes into creating an elite athlete or being the best team in the world? Science and lots of it! Science plays a key role in how athletes train, how they compete, what they eat, and, unfortunately, how they cheat. Throughout the term this course explores a range of topics in the world of science in sports including, sports nutrition, sports performance, sport injury and doping in sport. In addition to all these topics students will be able to have several first hand experiences in the CWI Human Performance and Health Lab to perform certain sport specific tests to see where they stand when compared to the best athletes in the world.
