Beginner's Rocket Science This course will take you on a journey to learn what it takes to get into space. We will begin with an introduction to some basic math and physics, so you can build your first rocket. Along the way, we will discuss historical connections and discoveries, so you can better understand the process of traveling to space and staying there. Eventually you will be ready to take on a much larger mission as you work with your peers in a simulation to land a person on the moon. Special course fee: $40	$40.00

The New Dystopian Hero Dystopian stories like Divergent, The Hunger Games or The Giver are set in a time when things have gone horribly wrong in the world, and they warn about where our culture may end up if we aren't careful. In this class we will examine some of these storylines to see what kind of messages they are sending about current American values. Ultimately, we will try to decipher how these books and movies define the new American hero. Special course fee: $40	$40.00

Ebola in the News Are the diseases that make front page news worse than local outbreaks such as measles, and mumps? What makes a disease newsworthy? This CWID course will take a scientists perspective on diseases including the development of vaccines. The course would compare current outbreaks such as Ebola in West Africa with more local outbreaks such as measles, whooping cough, and bird flu. Development of the Ebola vaccine will be explored and compared to older vaccines such as those for measles and mumps. Special course fee: $40	$40.00

Media and the Art of Lying Media and advertising companies pour millions of dollars into video content designed to engage and entice viewers. Are the designers' tactics sincere and honest? Or is there another side to this explosion of video content? What is the real effect of media on our thoughts and decisions? This course will take a look at the methods used to sell the individual and society products and ideas. Students will learn to analyze and evaluate various types of media and become more conscious viewers. Ultimately participants will learn how to make more-educated decisions and to use those same analytical skills to be more successful in college. Hybrid course-Has an online component. Tombs, Temples and Mummies: Art and Architecture of Ancient Egypt and the Modern World The art and architecture of Ancient Egypt has tantalized imaginations for some 2500 years. This course will explore the cultural production of Ancient Egypt so students gain an understanding of the development and importance of specific art forms and their relationship to its history. We will then examine the fascination Egypt has had for the West as a result of events like the French campaign from 1798-1801 and the discovery in 1922 of the tomb of King Tutankhamun. These have influenced the creation of such diverse things as funerary structures, buildings, film and video, and fashion. Special course fee: $40

I'd Rather be Gaming Some believe that to neglect students who have a passion for the booming gaming industry is a travesty. This course seeks to engage gamers and non-gamers alike and connect their strengths in the gaming world with those needed to succeed in college. We will examine the different sides of the argument, "is gaming a waste of time?" Students interested in gaming will be given the opportunity to evaluate their academic strengths and personality and understand how they align with world of gaming. All students will complete the course better prepared to win in college, and with good time management, students might even learn how to reserve some time to play. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. True Lies: Short Fiction about Real Life According to Stephen King, "Fiction is a lie, and good fiction is the truth inside the lie." In this course, we will examine stories that walk the line between fiction and nonfiction and how contemporary writers illuminate real-life difficulties. We will read Tim O'Brien on war, Lorrie Moore on cancer, Amy Hempel on her worst secret, and Sherman Alexie on leaving home. We will explore the kinds of truths that might lend themselves to fiction and discuss how fiction helps us to navigate our lives and our world. Special course fee: $40	$40.00
CWID-101-011 Nampa Campus Fantastical Futures and What They Teach Us Science Fiction is a genre that explores not only a fantastical future or alternative present, but it also plays a pivotal role in critically examining our current societies. Through literature and film, we will investigate the larger questions of what it means to exist on earth today. How are science and technology shaping our societies? What are humanity's greatest challenges? What role can science fiction play in helping us understand our own communities and ourselves, and ultimately, what it means to be human? CWID-101-014W Online YOLO: Existing in the Modern World You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to decide for yourself if Kierkegaard is indeed the first one with the hashtag YOLO. Movies that Move Us - Do you like films that are inspiring, uplifting, and intriguing? Do you wonder whether movies can move people to action? The classroom, with all its inherent drama, conflict, and diversity, has provided the perfect setting for many books and movies in our culture. In this course we'll explore how education portrayed in cinema and literature compares to the real world, and we'll have some fun along the way. Additionally, we'll discuss how adults learn, in both a traditional and online environment. Students completing this course will be better prepared to succeed in college, and in life. Whether you are just curious about how movies influence our lives or perhaps you are considering a career in teaching, join us to uncover the tips and tricks to achievement in school, and beyond. Beyond the Academy Awards: Movies and Culture Most Americans, by the time they're eighteen, have watched more than a thousand movies. They can quote lines from Batman Returns and sing the entire sound track from Frozen. But do movies simply reflect our culture, or are they much more powerful, influencing the way we think, the choices we make, and how other people treat us? The purpose of this class is to examine these questions using a variety of contemporary American films, both narrative and documentary, as records of social attitudes and as a means for self-reflection and decision-making. Special course fee: $40	$40.00

Music and Politics: From Beethoven to Bono Can Bono save the world? That's the question Time magazine asked in 2002. Whether he can or not, the activities of musicians like Bono illustrate how music and politics are deeply connected. This course examines the relationship of music and musicians to the brokers of power during the past 200 years of Western music history. Also explored are the ways musicians have negotiated the issues of patronage, censorship and propaganda. The course will also discuss the role of musician as the voice of the people through the music of protest and patriotism and examine how music has been used in political campaigns. Special course fee: $40	$40.00

Health Shenanigans This course will explore current fallacies related to being in a state of "good health." Students will learn how to scrutinize health information to identify fraudulent or ill informed advertisements that claims to alter the human condition (often for financial gain). People might be awed by fanciful research studies or unreasonable promises. These tactics may promote fear and devalue legitimate science. At the end of this course, students will have learned to be educated consumers, adopting skills that will lead to academic success, and improved ability to decipher the information that surrounds us. Digital Citizenship The focus of this course will be a fun and provocative look at how technology is changing us inside and outside of the classroom. Networks are resources that provide you with valuable information. Networking is not just about computers, cell phones, Facebook, and Twitter. Networking is also working together on assignments and finding help through services you might not have considered yet. So what are the advantages and disadvantages of all these networks around you? In this course we will address networking as a concept, not just as a technical option. You will learn how to use computer related networks such as email, cloud networking, and other non-computer related networks, that are available to you as a student, when attending CWI. Students will learn how to take responsibility of learning in both the traditional and the classroom with more technology. Special course fee: $40	$40.00

CWID-101-021 Nampa Campus Cryptography: Secret and Not-So-Secret Codes Throughout history, cryptography has evolved from messages written on the shaved heads of servants to highly robust computer encryption. In this course, we will examine the history of cryptography, study several cryptosystems, and practice techniques for cracking those cryptosystems. In addition, we will be examining our current level of dependence on cryptography, for instance, in our banking systems and cell phones. The mathematics required to understand and implement these cryptosystems is the equivalent of four years of high school mathematics. Rated (R)reality: Exploring Controversy in Media and Society "This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes." - Morpheus, The Matrix For some, the experience of becoming a college student can be very different than what they had expected or imagined. We all hold ideas and assumptions about the way things "really are," and about how the world works. When those ideas and assumptions are challenged, it can be both uncomfortable and liberating. This course introduces students to the college experience and to ways of thinking and learning that can be both challenging and rewarding. By sociologically exploring interesting (and sometimes controversial) topics that are relevant in contemporary media and society, students will develop strategies for success in college as well as gain new and important insights into the ways in which they are shaped by - and connected to - the community, society and culture in which they live. Hybrid course-has an online component. Special course fee: $40

Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. Special course fee: $40

What Are the Chances? Newspapers love to splash big headlines about death by shark, but did you realize that you are more likely to be killed by a statistician than by a shark? This topic will take a light-hearted but rigorous approach to probability, giving you the opportunity to exercise some fairly simple mathematical operations while thinking about some fairly complex ideas. The theme will be approached from a variety of disciplines, looking not only at the mathematical concepts of probability, but also at its historical and philosophical underpinnings. Don't be afraid to sign up just because your math background is shaky! All calculations will be done with calculators, and nothing is more complex than simple addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. About two-thirds of the material in this course is not covered in any other math course at CWI. Special course fee: $40

I'd Rather be Gaming Some believe that to neglect students who have a passion for the booming gaming industry is a travesty. This course seeks to engage gamers and non-gamers alike and connect their strengths in the gaming world with those needed to succeed in college. We will examine the different sides of the argument, "is gaming a waste of time?" Students interested in gaming will be given the opportunity to evaluate their academic strengths and personality and understand how they align with world of gaming. All students will complete the course better prepared to win in college, and with good time management, students might even learn how to reserve some time to play. Modern Apocalyptic Horror: Stories of the apocalypse have become increasingly popular. Television shows like The Walking Dead, fiction like Stephen King's The Stand, and movies like I Am Legend captivate audiences and make millions in sales. Narratives like these offer a bleak view of the aftermath of an apocalypse, where the human race is nearly wiped out by disease, monsters, or cataclysm, and where the last survivors of humanity are forced to fight against these horrors, and often each other, to survive. Why is our culture obsessed with the idea of an apocalypse? What about the genre appeals to a wide range of people? This class will explore the apocalypse in television, film, and print. We will examine the ideas of culture, religion, technology, world events, and heroism in the genre in an attempt to uncover why apocalyptic narratives resonate with so many people. Poison and Murder: Toxicology in the Age of Prohibition "Dosis facit venenum" or "The dose makes the poison." - Paracelsus The course will use case studies from the text The Poisoner's Handbook: Murder and the Birth of Forensic Medicine in the Jazz Age to both humanize scientists and to show real world applications of scientific research. Two projects during the class will reinforce these ideals by recreating simulated murder investigations. The focus of this course is to learn the beginnings of the scientific method, critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, and interdisciplinary science by studying accounts of poisoners and the scientists who caught them. Students will explore success strategies for the class through group work and research using online and real world tools provided by the college. The Science of Speed Have you ever wondered what makes Usain Bolt the fastest man on Earth? How did Chris Johnson run a 4.24 second 40 yard dash? Why and how did Lance Armstrong cheat? What goes into creating an elite athlete or being the best team in the world? Science and lots of it! Science plays a key role in how athletes train, how they compete, what they eat, and, unfortunately, how they cheat. Throughout the term this course explores a range of topics in the world of science in sports including, sports nutrition, sports performance, sport injury and doping in sport. In addition to all these topics students will be able to have several first hand experiences in the CWI Human Performance and Health Lab to perform certain sport specific tests to see where they stand when compared to the best athletes in the world. YOLO: Existing in the Modern World. You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to decide for yourself if Kierkegaard is indeed the first one with the hashtag YOLO. Humor and American Culture "Good satire goes beyond the specific point it's trying to make and teaches you how to think critically. Even after your favorite cartoonist retires or [Stephen] Colbert wraps it up, you're not left believing everything they're telling you." -Aaron McGruder, creator of "The Boondocks" In this course we will examine satirical works such as The Daily Show, The Onion, and South Park to think critically about American culture and to explore important moments and transitions in our history as well as in current events. We will analyze the impact of these works on us as media consumers-how do they change the way we think about our culture and events? Why do so many Americans get their news from humorists instead of or in addition to traditional news outlets? Why does an Onion article prompt us to think about an issue in a way that a New York Times article doesn't? To answer these questions, we will examine satire as a literary genre and art form in political cartoons, film, journalism, television, and social media. Health Shenanigans This course will explore current fallacies related to being in a state of "good health." Students will learn how to scrutinize health information to identify fraudulent or ill informed advertisements that claims to alter the human condition (often for financial gain). People might be awed by fanciful research studies or unreasonable promises. These tactics may promote fear and devalue legitimate science. At the end of this course, students will have learned to be educated consumers, adopting skills that will lead to academic success, and improved ability to decipher the information that surrounds us. Idaho Authors and the West - Course content will deal with the American West. The American West conjures images of cowboys and outlaws, gold mines and uncharted wilderness, Wild West shows and Hollywood, vast, empty spaces and suburban sprawl. It has long been viewed as rugged territory where the hearty, the visionary, and the brave can claim fortune, freedom, and fame. It is a land as much myth as reality, full of contradiction and complexity. Literature has played its role creating, perpetuating, and debunking these myths. This course will introduce you to various Idaho writers and their writings. Through their fiction, non-fiction, and poetry-much of it set in the state of Idaho, we will explore the ever-changing West and analyze its many meanings. How do these writers and writings envision the West, and how do these visions fit with your own, as a College of Western Idaho student? Inspired by what we read, we will use our own Western experiences as material for the newest wave of Idaho-authored stories, memoirs, and poems. Special course fee: $40

Digital Citizenship The focus of this course will be a fun and provocative look at how technology is changing us inside and outside of the classroom. Networks are resources that provide you with valuable information. Networking is not just about computers, cell phones, Facebook, and Twitter. Networking is also working together on assignments and finding help through services you might not have considered yet. So what are the advantages and disadvantages of all these networks around you? In this course we will address networking as a concept, not just as a technical option. You will learn how to use computer related networks such as email, cloud networking, and other non-computer related networks, that are available to you as a student, when attending CWI. Students will learn how to take responsibility of learning in both the traditional and the classroom with more technology. Special course fee: $40

Movies That Move Us Do you like films that are inspiring, uplifting, and intriguing? Do you wonder whether movies can move people to action? The classroom, with all its inherent drama, conflict, and diversity, has provided the perfect setting for many books and movies in our culture. In this course we'll explore how education portrayed in cinema and literature compares to the real world, and we'll have some fun along the way. Additionally, we'll discuss how adults learn, in both a traditional and online environment. Students completing this course will be better prepared to succeed in college, and in life. Whether you are you are just curious about how movies influence our lives or perhaps you are considering a career in teaching, join us to uncover the tips and tricks to achievement in school, and beyond. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. Nampa Campus Media and the Art of Lying Media and advertising companies pour millions of dollars into video content designed to engage and entice viewers. Are the designers' tactics sincere and honest? Or is there another side to this explosion of video content? What is the real effect of media on our thoughts and decisions? This course will take a look at the methods used to sell the individual and society products and ideas. Students will learn to analyze and evaluate various types of media and become more conscious viewers. Ultimately participants will learn how to make more-educated decisions and to use those same analytical skills to be more successful in college. CWID-101-066	CWID: The Science of Speed	3	M,W	Lecture	Curry, Timothy	8/22/16	12/17/16
Nampa Campus The Science of Speed Have you ever wondered what makes Usain Bolt the fastest man on Earth? How did Chris Johnson run a 4.24 second 40 yard dash? Why and how did Lance Armstrong cheat? What goes into creating an elite athlete or being the best team in the world? Science and lots of it! Science plays a key role in how athletes train, how they compete, what they eat, and, unfortunately, how they cheat. Throughout the term this course explores a range of topics in the world of science in sports including, sports nutrition, sports performance, sport injury and doping in sport. In addition to all these topics students will be able to have several first hand experiences in the CWI Human Performance and Health Lab to perform certain sport specific tests to see where they stand when compared to the best athletes in the world. CWID-101-067W	CWID: Humor and Ameri Culture	3		On-Line	Newberry, Christina	8/22/16	12/17/16
Online Humor and American Culture "Good satire goes beyond the specific point it's trying to make and teaches you how to think critically. Even after your favorite cartoonist retires or [Stephen] Colbert wraps it up, you're not left believing everything they're telling you." -Aaron McGruder, creator of "The Boondocks" In this course we will examine satirical works such as The Daily Show, The Onion, and South Park to think critically about American culture and to explore important moments and transitions in our history as well as in current events. We will analyze the impact of these works on us as media consumers-how do they change the way we think about our culture and events? Why do so many Americans get their news from humorists instead of or in addition to traditional news outlets? Why does an Onion article prompt us to think about an issue in a way that a New York Times article doesn't? To answer these questions, we will examine satire as a literary genre and art form in political cartoons, film, journalism, television, and social media. Online Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. Nampa Campus Failing to Succeed: Learning from Failure in Engineering and Life What would you do if you saw a 10-foot wave of molasses coming towards you? That's the question citizens in Northeast Boston had to answer in 1919. What does that incident have to do with Hitler's invasion of France in 1940? What can comparing those two events teach students about success in college? In this class we will examine multiple failures in engineering materials and systems; compare them with failures and successes in history, literature, politics, business, and popular culture; and learn what skills students need to succeed both in college and in their careers. Students will have the opportunity to practice these skills during the course, and they will learn to use both failure and success to their advantage.
