Cryptography: Secret and Not-So-Secret Codes Throughout history, cryptography has evolved from messages written on the shaved heads of servants to highly robust computer encryption. In this course, we will examine the history of cryptography, study several cryptosystems, and practice techniques for cracking those cryptosystems. In addition, we will be examining our current level of dependence on cryptography, for instance, in our banking systems and cell phones. The mathematics required to understand and implement these cryptosystems is the equivalent of four years of high school mathematics. This class is designed to appeal to both history and math/science buffs alike! Hybrid course - has an online component Hybrid course fee: $15							$15.00

Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. Money Math - Too many students ask "why do I have to take math?" In this class, students will explore the math they are currently using and help them gain a better understanding of the need for math in their personal lives, managing their money, planning for their future and the potential use of math in different careers that they haven't thought of. We will use spreadsheets to develop a budget and to track expenses, to estimate $s needed for short term and long term goals, students will read a book from a selected list of personal finance self-help books and write a short report on it, they will be sharpening their math skills by practicing adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing, decimal numbers, fractions, ratios, percent's and using variables.							$0.00

I'd Rather be Gaming Some believe that to neglect students who have a passion for the booming gaming industry is a travesty. This course seeks to engage gamers and non-gamers alike and connect their strengths in the gaming world with those needed to succeed in college. We will examine the different sides of the argument, "is gaming a waste of time?" Students interested in gaming will be given the opportunity to evaluate their academic strengths and personality and understand how they align with world of gaming. All students will complete the course better prepared to win in college, and with good time management, students might even learn how to reserve some time to play. Canyon County Center Be the Author of Your Life Story Do you love stories? If you do, you're in good company! Stories have fascinated humans for thousands of years; guidance, enlightenment, and inspiration await us there. But what about the most important story you will ever encounter? The story of your own life? Is your life story one of power and accomplishment or one of confusion and impotence? Is that story soundly plotted or does it muddle along unguided? Is it written well, so that you and others can benefit from it? Most importantly, who is the author of your life story? Are you its plot master or is someone else penning the words while you just try to keep up? In this class, we will explore what story is, how stories are constructed, and what makes a story good. By sharing a few great stories we will buttress our understanding. And you will write a story of your own life - both the past you have already lived and the potential you want to fulfill. Join us, pick up the pen, enhance your literary and academic skills, and become the author of your own success at CWI and beyond!	Canyon County Center	237	27	27	ericminer@cwidaho.cc	11:30 AM	12:45 PM

CWID-101-010	CWID: Idaho Authors	3	M,W	Lecture	Nicholas, David	8/21/17	12/16/17
Ada County Campus Idaho Authors and the West Course content will deal with the American West. The American West conjures images of cowboys and outlaws, gold mines and uncharted wilderness, Wild West shows and Hollywood, vast, empty spaces and suburban sprawl. It has long been viewed as rugged territory where the hearty, the visionary, and the brave can claim fortune, freedom, and fame. It is a land as much myth as reality, full of contradiction and complexity. Literature has played its role creating, perpetuating, and debunking these myths. This course will introduce you to various Idaho writers and their writings. Through their fiction, non-fiction, and poetry-much of it set in the state of Idaho, we will explore the ever-changing West and analyze its many meanings. How do these writers and writings envision the West, and how do these visions fit with your own, as a College of Western Idaho student? Inspired by what we read, we will use our own Western experiences as material for the newest wave of Idaho-authored stories, memoirs, and poems. Do it by accident and people call you lucky. Do it by design and they'll call you creative." In this course, we will explore the creative process and look at the characteristics of highly creative people. How does creativity help us to be better problem-solvers and better students? We will also explore the challenge of being original in a digital age. Students will learn how to "steal like an artist" and other methods of unlocking their creative potential. Reading and Navigating through Idaho Whitewater Idaho is considered the "whitewater playground" for river enthusiasts. The state boasts numerous whitewater rivers that are easily accessible for day or multi-day trips. Rafting in whitewater will create an experience one will never forget. In addition to the thrill of whitewater adventures, students will explore other river recreational activities such as fishing, hiking, and camping on Idaho's waters. Students will also understand the importance of river conservation and stewardship. Just like choosing which river to run and how to prepare for a day of fun, it is important for students to research which educational path will help them achieve their personal and professional goals. Media and Self: Shaping Our Beliefs Media sources are central to culture and contribute daily to our communication, socialization, and core beliefs. The "ubiquitous assimilation" of information characterizes the 21st Century. Our beliefs about gender, race, and the consumption of goods from food to clothing to dwellings are influenced by a constant stream of media messages, often times without our conscious awareness. In this course, we will explore these messages and their desired effects and develop ways to discern truth from propaganda, effectively analyze media messages for function, intent and bias, and understand how this information contributes meaning to the lives of individuals and to society as a whole. YOLO: Existing in the Modern World You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to decide for yourself if Kierkegaard is indeed the first one with the hashtag YOLO. What Am I Worth? You have worked hard to get an education (or you are working hard to get an education) and it's time to exchange your knowledge for a paycheck. A paycheck is just a bunch of dollars until you use them. Are these dollars a tool or a convenience? Will you tell your money where it will go? Or will you wonder where it went? Beyond the Academy Awards: Movies and Culture Most Americans, by the time they're eighteen, have watched more than a thousand movies. They can quote lines from Batman Returns and sing the entire sound track from Frozen. But do movies simply reflect our culture, or are they much more powerful, influencing the way we think, the choices we make, and how other people treat us? The purpose of this class is to examine these questions using a variety of contemporary American films, both narrative and documentary, as records of social attitudes and as a means for self-reflection and decision-making.

Nampa Campus Why Bodhidharma Traveled West: Zen Buddhism, Jazz, and the Beats In 1957, Jack Kerouac published his novel On the Road and the "Beat Generation" was officially born in the public consciousness. Part road adventure novel, part epic poem, artistic treatise and sutra, On the Road showcased the attitudes and lifestyle of a counter-cultural movement that placed literary expression, jazz improvisation, mind expansion, individual freedom, a sense of sacred love, and the notion of the Buddhist bodhisattva at its ideological core. Drawing inspiration from diverse sources such as Walt Whitman, Miles Davis, and founder of the San Francisco Zen Center, D.T Suzuki, the Beat Literary movement changed the way writers approached literature, and changed the way a large portion of America viewed American life in the middle of the 20th Century. Through writing, meditation, and academic study of Beat Writers such Jack Kerouac, Allen Ginsberg, Gary Snyder, Phillip Walen, and Anne Waldman, as well as the writing of Zen Masters, Dogen Zenji and D.T. Suzuki, this course will investigate the influence of Zen Buddhism on 20th Century American Literature.	Aspen Classroom Building $0.00	101	25	27	carldellabadia@cwidaho.cc	10:00 AM	11:15 AM

Poison and Murder: Toxicology in the Age of Prohibition "Dosis facit venenum" or "The dose makes the poison." - Paracelsus The course will use case studies from the text The Poisoner's Handbook: Murder and the Birth of Forensic Medicine in the Jazz Age to both humanize scientists and to show real world applications of scientific research. Two projects during the class will reinforce these ideals by recreating simulated murder investigations. The focus of this course is to learn the beginnings of the scientific method, critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, and interdisciplinary science by studying accounts of poisoners and the scientists who caught them. Students will explore success strategies for the class through group work and research using online and real world tools provided by the college. Rated (R)eality: Exploring Controversy in Media and Society "This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes." - Morpheus, The Matrix For some, the experience of becoming a college student can be very different than what they had expected or imagined. We all hold ideas and assumptions about the way things "really are," and about how the world works. When those ideas and assumptions are challenged, it can be both uncomfortable and liberating. This course introduces students to the college experience and to ways of thinking and learning that can be both challenging and rewarding. By sociologically exploring interesting (and sometimes controversial) topics that are relevant in contemporary media and society, students will develop strategies for success in college as well as gain new and important insights into the ways in which they are shaped by - and connected to - the community, society and culture in which they live. Ada County Campus What Are the Chances? Newspapers love to splash big headlines about death by shark, but did you realize that you are more likely to be killed by a statistician than by a shark? This topic will take a light-hearted but rigorous approach to probability, giving you the opportunity to exercise some fairly simple mathematical operations while thinking about some fairly complex ideas. The theme will be approached from a variety of disciplines, looking not only at the mathematical concepts of probability, but also at its historical and philosophical underpinnings. Don't be afraid to sign up just because your math background is shaky! All calculations will be done with calculators, and nothing is more complex than simple addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. That's the question citizens in Northeast Boston had to answer in 1919. What does that incident have to do with Hitler's invasion of France in 1940? What can comparing those two events teach students about success in college? In this class we will examine multiple failures in engineering materials and systems; compare them with failures and successes in history, literature, politics, business, and popular culture; and learn what skills students need to succeed both in college and in their careers. Students will have the opportunity to practice these skills during the course, and they will learn to use both failure and success to their advantage. What causes linguistic stereotypes, such as French being the language of love and German the language of war? These questions and more will be addressed through movies, social media and literature. We will explore how the basic building blocks of language affect communication and how language and culture impacts a person's identity and their perspective of the world. Downton Abbey shows us the lives of one family living before and through the interwar period. The family represents a class of people that was poor in cash but rich in power, property, and pedigree. This course will look at the people that made up this class, analyzing what levels of power and control they had after WWI and through the interwar period; what ideals, thoughts, and structures made up the aristocratic sensibilities; and how their power declined after WWII. Cryptography: Secret and Not-So-Secret Codes Throughout history, cryptography has evolved from messages written on the shaved heads of servants to highly robust computer encryption. In this course, we will examine the history of cryptography, study several cryptosystems, and practice techniques for cracking those cryptosystems. In addition, we will be examining our current level of dependence on cryptography, for instance, in our banking systems and cell phones. The mathematics required to understand and implement these cryptosystems is the equivalent of four years of high school mathematics. The "ubiquitous assimilation" of information characterizes the 21st Century. Our beliefs about gender, race, and the consumption of goods from food to clothing to dwellings are influenced by a constant stream of media messages, often times without our conscious awareness. Online YOLO: Existing in the Modern World You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to decide for yourself if Kierkegaard is indeed the first one with the hashtag YOLO. Humor and American Culture "Good satire goes beyond the specific point it's trying to make and teaches you how to think critically. Even after your favorite cartoonist retires or [Stephen] Colbert wraps it up, you're not left believing everything they're telling you." -Aaron McGruder, creator of "The Boondocks" In this course we will examine satirical works such as The Daily Show, The Onion, and South Park to think critically about American culture and to explore important moments and transitions in our history as well as in current events. We will analyze the impact of these works on us as media consumers-how do they change the way we think about our culture and events? Why do so many Americans get their news from humorists instead of or in addition to traditional news outlets? Why does an Onion article prompt us to think about an issue in a way that a New York Times article doesn't? To answer these questions, we will examine satire as a literary genre and art form in political cartoons, film, journalism, television, and social media. Why Bodhidharma Traveled West: Zen Buddhism, Jazz, and the Beats; In 1957, Jack Kerouac published his novel On the Road and the "Beat Generation" was officially born in the public consciousness. Part road adventure novel, part epic poem, artistic treatise and sutra, On the Road showcased the attitudes and lifestyle of a counter-cultural movement that placed literary expression, jazz improvisation, mind expansion, individual freedom, a sense of sacred love, and the notion of the Buddhist bodhisattva at its ideological core. Drawing inspiration from diverse sources such as Walt Whitman, Miles Davis, and founder of the San Francisco Zen Center, D.T Suzuki, the Beat Literary movement changed the way writers approached literature, and changed the way a large portion of America viewed American life in the middle of the 20th Century. Through writing, meditation, and academic study of Beat Writers such as Jack Kerouac, Allen Ginsberg, Gary Snyder, Phillip Walen, and Anne Waldman, as well as the writing of Zen Masters, Dogen Zenji and D.T. Suzuki, this course will investigate the influence of Zen Buddhism on 20th Century American Literature.		$0.00

Idaho Authors and the West Course content will deal with the American West. The American West conjures images of cowboys and outlaws, gold mines and uncharted wilderness, Wild West shows and Hollywood, vast, empty spaces and suburban sprawl. It has long been viewed as rugged territory where the hearty, the visionary, and the brave can claim fortune, freedom, and fame. It is a land as much myth as reality, full of contradiction and complexity. Literature has played its role creating, perpetuating, and debunking these myths. This course will introduce you to various Idaho writers and their writings. Through their fiction, non-fiction, and poetry-much of it set in the state of Idaho, we will explore the ever-changing West and analyze its many meanings. How do these writers and writings envision the West, and how do these visions fit with your own, as a College of Western Idaho student? Inspired by what we read, we will use our own Western experiences as material for the newest wave of Idaho-authored stories, memoirs, and poems. Online course fee: $30

Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. What Am I Worth? You have worked hard to get an education (or you are working hard to get an education) and it's time to exchange your knowledge with a paycheck. A paycheck is just a bunch of dollars until you use them. Are these dollars a tool or a convenience? Will you tell your money where it will go? Or will you wonder where it went? You will gain tools in this course to manage your personal financial cash flow in addition to gaining tools to help you navigate through your CWI experience. NOTE: Section reserved for Kuna and Nampa school district staff.		$15.00

You Are What You Eat: Exploring Our Relationships with Food This course explores the complicated relationship between humans and their diet, using Michael Pollan's The Omnivore's Dilemma as a guide. In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. We will also learn practical tools and strategies to promote success in college and in life. Hybrid course - has an online component; Hybrid course fee: $15		$15.00

Journalism in the 21st Century Understanding how to construct journalistic content in the 21st century is more important now than ever given the increasing numbers of outlets and audiences. In particular, this course will focus in on three primary topics: First, how to write media content using journalistic principles, second, how to deliver that message effectively, and finally, how to apply ethical standards to ensure the message is fair, accurate and objective. We will also examine how these same topics can be applied to success in college and beyond.	$0.00

Beyond Downton Abbey It's fun to speculate how the other half lived, and none lived more lavishly and more fully than the British aristocracy. Downton Abbey shows us the lives of one family living before and through the interwar period. The family represents a class of people that was poor in cash but rich in power, property, and peerage. This course will look at the people that made up this class, analyzing what levels of power and control they had after WWI and through the interwar period; what ideals, thoughts, and structures made up the aristocratic sensibilities; and how their power declined after WWII. We'll not only look at the mainstream aristocrats but at radical political rebels and empowered women.	$0.00

Be the Author of Your Life Story Do you love stories? If you do, you're in good company! Stories have fascinated humans for thousands of years; guidance, enlightenment, and inspiration await us there. But what about the most important story you will ever encounter? The story of your own life? Is your life story one of power and accomplishment or one of confusion and impotence? Is that story soundly plotted or does it muddle along unguided? Is it written well, so that you and others can benefit from it? Most importantly, who is the author of your life story? Are you its plot master or is someone else penning the words while you just try to keep up? In this class, we will explore what story is, how stories are constructed, and what makes a story good. By sharing a few great stories we will buttress our understanding. And you will write a story of your own life - both the past you have already lived and the potential you want to fulfill. Join us, pick up the pen, enhance your literary and academic skills, and become the author of your own success at CWI and beyond!

Poison and Murder: Toxicology in the Jazz Age "Dosis facit venenum" or "The dose makes the poison." - Paracelsus The course will use case studies from the text The Poisoner's Handbook: Murder and the Birth of Forensic Medicine in the Jazz Age to both humanize scientists and to show real world applications of scientific research. A project during the class will reinforce these ideals by recreating a simulated murder investigation. The focus of this course is to learn the beginnings of the scientific method, critical thinking, quantitative reasoning, and interdisciplinary science by studying accounts of poisoners and the scientists who caught them. Transformative Storytelling: Shift Your World View; Angela Davis said, "You have to act as if it were possible to radically transform the world. And you have to do it all the time." What does it mean to transform the world? It's an idea you'll hear as you begin your college journey, and this class will examine what that transformation can look like. We'll start building our classroom community by telling the stories of ourselves and our people; we will connect with each other by listening, reflecting, and thinking critically about the stories we tell ourselves and the world around us. Students will share their voices through oral storytelling and creative writing, and examine what the world can look like when it's rooted in interdependence, resilience, and regeneration. CWID-101-501H Nampa Campus Language and Identity Is French really the language of love? German the language of war? Does the way you speak or write affect the way others perceive you? Does your lexicon determine whether or not you get a job? Should it? These questions and more will be addressed through movies, social media and literature. We will explore how the basic building blocks of language affect communication and how a person's native language impacts their identity and their perspective of the world. Students will learn how an awareness of language and identity can help them to better navigate and participate in a multilingual world. Hybrid course-Has an online component. CWID-101-502H Ada County Campus Finding Your Tribe What does it mean to be a part of something bigger than yourself? Sebastian Junger, in his 2016 book Tribe addressed the fact that we are stronger not just as individuals but as a society when we come together for a common good. When we consider tribes, we typically associate groups of distinct people who are largely self-sufficient and not integrated into the society as a whole. Through the understanding of "tribes" in a modern context, this class will discuss the sense of community and interdependence that many argue is absent in today's society. We will consider examples of great adversity both past and present (WWII, 9/11, The Global War on Terrorism, the increase in mass shootings, etc.) and the resulting affects these have/had at both the individual and societal levels. Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, PTSD, opportunity, war, personality, persistence, and achievement. The format will include discussion, presentations, guest speakers from within CWID and the community, and personal application in order to determine the strengths students need to succeed as a "tribe" while in college and beyond. This class will also require 15-20 hours outside the classroom in a community service capacity (volunteer). Hybrid course-Has an online component. CWID-101-503H Nampa Campus The New Dystopian Hero - Dystopian stories like Divergent, The Hunger Games or The Giver are set in a time when things have gone horribly wrong in the world, and they warn about where our culture may end up if we aren't careful. In this class we will examine some of these storylines to see what kind of messages they are sending about current American values. Ultimately, we will try to decipher how these books and movies define the new American hero. Hybrid course - has an online component.
