Beginner's Rocket Science. This course will take you on a journey to learn what it takes to get into space. We will begin with an introduction to some basic math and physics, so you can build your first rocket. Along the way, we will discuss historical connections and discoveries, so you can better understand the process of traveling to space and staying there. Eventually you will be ready to take on a much larger mission as you work with your peers in a simulation to land a person on the moon. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

Media Literacy Media are central to culture and contribute daily to our communication, socialization, and core beliefs. This course is designed to help students develop skills to effectively analyze media messages for function, intent and bias, and understand how this information contributes meaning to the lives of individuals and to society as a whole. Students will also create a personal media project to demonstrate concepts covered in the course. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

Canyon County Center	Canyon County Center	230	27	27	lancecurtis@cwidaho.cc	10:00 AM	11:15 AM
Failing to Succeed: Learning from Failure in Engineering and Life What would you do if you saw a 10-foot wave of molasses coming towards you? That's the question citizens in Northeast Boston had to answer in 1919. What does that incident have to do with Hitler's invasion of France in 1940? What can comparing those two events teach students about success in college? In this class we will examine multiple failures in engineering materials and systems; compare them with failures and successes in history, literature, politics, business, and popular culture; and learn what skills students need to succeed both in college and in their careers. Students will have the opportunity to practice these skills during the course, and they will learn to use both failure and success to their advantage. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00
CWID-101-004	CWID: Money Math	3	Tue,Thu	Lecture	Wagner, Randal	1/17/17	5/13/17
Ada County Campus	Pintail Center	1204	24	27	randalwagner@cwidaho.cc	7:00 AM	8:15 AM
Money Math Too many students ask "why do I have to take math?" In this class, students will explore the math they are currently using and help them gain a better understanding of the need for math in their personal lives, managing their money, planning for their future and the potential use of math in different careers that they haven't thought of. We will use spreadsheets to develop a budget and to track expenses, to estimate $s needed for short term and long term goals, students will read a book from a selected list of personal finance self-help books and write a short report on it, they will be sharpening their math skills by practicing adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing, decimal numbers, fractions, ratios, percent's and using variables. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00
CWID-101-005W	CWID: Heroes and Villains	3		On-Line	Molitor, Allison	1/17/17	5/13/17
Online	Online	ONL	27	27	allisonmolitor@cwidaho.cc
Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. Additional course fee: $65; Online course fee: $30	$95.00

Determined Destination This course will provide guidance in career choice and job-searching skills. Students will use career planning tools to find an answer to the question, "What do I do now?" We will learn to avoid roadblocks on the path to a well-chosen career, increase motivation, and build self-awareness, self-confidence, and patience. We will also discuss how to turn rejections into successes, write resumes and cover letters, and how to plan an education to best match a future career. Students will also learn to navigate Microsoft Office and goal-setting tools. Additional course fee: $65; Online course fee: $30	$95.00

I'd Rather be Gaming: Some believe that to neglect students who have a passion for the booming gaming industry is a travesty. This course seeks to engage gamers and non-gamers alike and connect their strengths in the gaming world with those needed to succeed in college. We will examine the different sides of the argument, "is gaming a waste of time?" Students interested in gaming will be given the opportunity to evaluate their academic strengths and personality and understand how they align with world of gaming. All students will complete the course better prepared to win in college, and with good time management, students might even learn how to reserve some time to play. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology, and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. Music and Politics: From Beethoven to Bono Can Bono save the world? That's the question Time magazine asked in 2002. Whether he can or not, the activities of musicians like Bono illustrate how music and politics are deeply connected. This course examines the relationship of music and musicians to the brokers of power during the past 200 years of Western music history. Also explored are the ways musicians have negotiated the issues of patronage, censorship and propaganda. The course will also discuss the role of musician as the voice of the people through the music of protest and patriotism and examine how music has been used in political campaigns. Digital Citizenship The focus of this course will be a fun and provocative look at how technology is changing us inside and outside of the classroom. Networks are resources that provide you with valuable information. Networking is not just about computers, cell phones, Facebook, and Twitter. Networking is also working together on assignments and finding help through services you might not have considered yet. So what are the advantages and disadvantages of all these networks around you? In this course we will address networking as a concept, not just as a technical option. You will learn how to use computer related networks such as email, cloud networking, and other non-computer related networks, that are available to you as a student, when attending CWI. Students will learn how to take responsibility of learning in both the traditional and the classroom with more technology.

Rated (R)eality: Exploring Controversy in Media and Society "This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes." - Morpheus, The Matrix For some, the experience of becoming a college student can be very different than what they had expected or imagined. We all hold ideas and assumptions about the way things "really are," and about how the world works. When those ideas and assumptions are challenged, it can be both uncomfortable and liberating. This course introduces students to the college experience and to ways of thinking and learning that can be both challenging and rewarding. By sociologically exploring interesting (and sometimes controversial) topics that are relevant in contemporary media and society, students will develop strategies for success in college as well as gain new and important insights into the ways in which they are shaped by - and connected to - the community, society and culture in which they live. Idaho Rivers: Whitewater Reading and Navigating through Idaho Whitewater Idaho is considered the "whitewater playground" for river enthusiasts. The state boasts numerous whitewater river trips that are easily accessible for day or multiday trips. River adventures will provide an experience you will never forget. How you remember the trip completely depends on your planning, preparedness and appreciating the force of Mother Nature. Those who take the time to understand, respect and utilize the energy of the river will undoubtedly return time and again to create memories that last a lifetime. This course will compare the enthusiasm of whitewater rafting to the enthusiasm of higher education learning. Both fields require extensive research, planning, goal setting, mentoring, first-hand experience, support and navigation to have a positive, successful experience. Each concept of whitewater rafting preparation will parallel a concept of preparing for and being successful in college. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. CWID-101-039W Online YOLO: Existing in the Modern World You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. Why do so many Americans get their news from humorists instead of or in addition to traditional news outlets? Why does an Onion article prompt us to think about an issue in a way that a New York Times article doesn't? To answer these questions, we will examine satire as a literary genre and art form in political cartoons, film, journalism, television, and social media. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. Beyond Downton Abbey It's fun to speculate how the other half lived, and none lived more lavishly and more fully than the British aristocracy. Downton Abbey shows us the lives of one family living before and through the interwar period. The family represents a class of people that was poor in cash but rich in power, property, and peerage. This course will look at the people that made up this class, analyzing what levels of power and control they had after WWI and through the interwar period; what ideals, thoughts, and structures made up the aristocratic sensibilities; and how their power declined after WWII. We'll not only look at the mainstream aristocrats but at radical political rebels and empowered women. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

Journalism in the 21st Century Understanding how to construct journalistic content in the 21st century is more important now than ever given the increasing numbers of outlets and audiences. In particular, this course will focus in on three primary topics: First, how to write media content using journalistic principles, second, how to deliver that message effectively, and finally, how to apply ethical standards to ensure the message is fair, accurate and objective. We will also examine how these same topics can be applied to success in college and beyond. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

What Are the Chances? Newspapers love to splash big headlines about death by shark, but did you realize that you are more likely to be killed by a statistician than by a shark? This topic will take a light-hearted but rigorous approach to probability, giving you the opportunity to exercise some fairly simple mathematical operations while thinking about some fairly complex ideas. The theme will be approached from a variety of disciplines, looking not only at the mathematical concepts of probability, but also at its historical and philosophical underpinnings. Don't be afraid to sign up just because your math background is shaky! All calculations will be done with calculators, and nothing is more complex than simple addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. About two-thirds of the material in this course is not covered in any other math course at CWI. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

Heroes and Villains - What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology, and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWID. True Lies: Short Fiction about Real Life. According to Stephen King, "Fiction is a lie, and good fiction is the truth inside the lie." In this course, we will examine stories that walk the line between fiction and nonfiction and how contemporary writers illuminate real-life difficulties. We will read Tim O'Brien on war, Lorrie Moore on cancer, Amy Hempel on her worst secret, and Sherman Alexie on leaving home. We will explore the kinds of truths that might lend themselves to fiction and discuss how fiction helps us to navigate our lives and our world. Additional course fee: $65	$65.00

Movies that Move Us Do you like films that are inspiring, uplifting, and intriguing? Do you wonder whether movies can move people to action? The classroom, with all its inherent drama, conflict, and diversity, has provided the perfect setting for many books and movies in our culture. In this course we'll explore how education portrayed in cinema and literature compares to the real world, and we'll have some fun along the way. Additionally, we'll discuss how adults learn, in both a traditional and online environment. Students completing this course will be better prepared to succeed in college and in life. Whether you are just curious about how movies influence our lives or perhaps you are considering a career in teaching, join us to uncover the tips and tricks to achievement in school, and beyond. Media and the Art of Lying. Media and advertising companies pour millions of dollars into video content designed to engage and entice viewers. Are the designers' tactics sincere and honest? Or is there another side to this explosion of video content? What is the real effect of media on our thoughts and decisions? This course will take a look at the methods used to sell the individual and society products and ideas. Students will learn to analyze and evaluate various types of media and become more conscious viewers. Ultimately participants will learn how to make more-educated decisions and to use those same analytical skills to be more successful in college. Hybrid course - has an online component. Beyond the Academy Awards: Movies and Culture Most Americans, by the time they're eighteen, have watched more than a thousand movies. They can quote lines from Batman Returns and sing the entire sound track from Frozen. But do movies simply reflect our culture, or are they much more powerful, influencing the way we think, the choices we make, and how other people treat us? The purpose of this class is to examine these questions using a variety of contemporary American films, both narrative and documentary, as records of social attitudes and as a means for self-reflection and decision-making.
