Heroes and Villains What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. Be the Author of Your Life Story Do you love stories? If you do, you're in good company! Stories have fascinated humans for thousands of years; guidance, enlightenment, and inspiration await us there. But what about the most important story you will ever encounter? The story of your own life? Is your life story one of power and accomplishment or one of confusion and impotence? Is that story soundly plotted or does it muddle along unguided? Is it written well, so that you and others can benefit from it? Most importantly, who is the author of your life story? Are you its plot master or is someone else penning the words while you just try to keep up? In this class, we will explore what story is, how stories are constructed, and what makes a story good. By sharing a few great stories we will buttress our understanding. And you will write a story of your own life - both the past you have already lived and the potential you want to fulfill. Join us, pick up the pen, enhance your literary and academic skills, and become the author of your own success at CWI and beyond!

CWID-101-014W	CWID: YOLO: Exist/Mod World	3		On-Line	Wilson, Harold	1/16/18	5/12/18
Online YOLO: Existing in the Modern World You only live once is a popular tag line of our modern society. While some say it just started with a rap song, Soren Kierkegaard, a dusty old Dane who lived more than 150 years ago, had some ideas that look remarkably like the phrase we use today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as 'passionate inwardness', 'subjectivity', 'the individual', and 'the leap of faith', we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to decide for yourself if Kierkegaard is indeed the first one with the hashtag YOLO. Ada County Campus The Backpacker's Guide to Life: Reaching Your School, Career, and Life Goals With the ultimate backpacking adventure, a climb of Mount Everest as its theme, this course explores the complicated relationship between humans and their interactions with nature and each other. How do setting our goals, sometimes too high (literally and figuratively) help or hinder our work and life relationships. We will research and discuss the dynamics of teamwork and working with others, recognizing the strengths and weaknesses of ourselves and those we are with. We will also define and apply critical and creative thinking skills, realizing that is sometimes acceptable to modify goals and actions that can change with our personal situation and life circumstances. Ada County Campus Beyond the Academy Awards: Movies and Culture Most Americans, by the time they're eighteen, have watched more than a thousand movies. They can quote lines from Batman Returns and sing the entire sound track from Frozen. But do movies simply reflect our culture, or are they much more powerful, influencing the way we think, the choices we make, and how other people treat us? The purpose of this class is to examine these questions using a variety of contemporary American films, both narrative and documentary, as records of social attitudes and as a means for self-reflection and decision-making. CWID-101-019	CWID: Why Bodhidharma Trvld	3	M,W	Lecture	Della Badia, Carl	1/16/18	5/12/18
Nampa Campus Why Bodhidharma Traveled West: Zen Buddhism, Jazz, and the Beats In 1957, Jack Kerouac published his novel On the Road and the "Beat Generation" was officially born in the public consciousness. Part road adventure novel, part epic poem, artistic treatise and sutra, On the Road showcased the attitudes and lifestyle of a counter-cultural movement that placed literary expression, jazz improvisation, mind expansion, individual freedom, a sense of sacred love, and the notion of the Buddhist bodhisattva at its ideological core. Drawing inspiration from diverse sources such as Walt Whitman, Miles Davis, and founder of the San Francisco Zen Center, D.T Suzuki, the Beat Literary movement changed the way writers approached literature, and changed the way a large portion of America viewed American life in the middle of the 20th Century. Through writing, meditation, and academic study of Beat Writers such Jack Kerouac, Allen Ginsberg, Gary Snyder, Phillip Walen, and Anne Waldman, as well as the writing of Zen Masters, Dogen Zenji and D.T. Suzuki, this course will investigate the influence of Zen Buddhism on 20th Century American Literature.	Academic Building	201	23	27	carldellabadia@cwidaho.cc	8:30 AM	9:45 AM

Reading and Navigating through Idaho Whitewater Idaho is considered the "whitewater playground" for river enthusiasts. The state boasts numerous whitewater rivers that are easily accessible for day or multi-day trips. Rafting in whitewater will create an experience one will never forget. In addition to the thrill of whitewater adventures, students will explore other river recreational activities such as fishing, hiking, and camping on Idaho's waters. Students will also understand the importance of river conservation and stewardship. Just like choosing which river to run and how to prepare for a day of fun, it is important for students to research which educational path will help them achieve their personal and professional goals. We will explore those topics as well as the extreme survival conditions in the desert and out at sea. How does the human body adapt physiologically to maintain homeostasis when we are challenged to survive? Similarly, how can you survive and thrive as a college student? Let's explore all the ways to make smart decisions in conditions you will face in and out of a classroom. NOTE: Online sections of CWID are designed for students in fully online degrees. Nampa Campus Rated (R)eaity: Exploring Controversy in Media and Society "This is your last chance. After this, there is no turning back. You take the blue pill - the story ends, you wake up in your bed and believe whatever you want to believe. You take the red pill - you stay in Wonderland and I show you how deep the rabbit-hole goes." - Morpheus, The Matrix For some, the experience of becoming a college student can be very different than what they had expected or imagined. We all hold ideas and assumptions about the way things "really are," and about how the world works. When those ideas and assumptions are challenged, it can be both uncomfortable and liberating. This course introduces students to the college experience, and to ways of thinking and learning that can be both challenging and rewarding. By sociologically exploring interesting (and sometimes controversial) topics that are relevant in contemporary media and society, students will develop strategies for success in college as well as gain new and important insights into the ways in which they are shaped by - and connected to - the community, society and culture in which they live. Ada County Campus You Are What You Eat: Exploring Our Relationships with Food This course explores the complicated relationship between humans and their diet, using Michael Pollan's The Omnivore's Dilemma as a guide. In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. We will also learn practical tools and strategies to promote success in college and in life. Nampa Campus Beyond Downton Abby It's fun to speculate how the other half lived, and none lived more lavishly and more fully than the British aristocracy. Downton Abbey shows us the lives of one family living before and through the interwar period. The family represents a class of people that was poor in cash but rich in power, property, and peage. This course will look at the people that made up this class, analyzing what levels of power and control they had after WWI and through the interwar period; what ideals, thoughts, and structures made up the aristocratic sensibilities; and how their power declined after WWII. We'll not only look at the mainstream aristocrats but at radical political rebels and empowered women.	Aspen Classroom Building	106	8	27	michalyadlin@cwidaho.cc	11:30 AM	12:45 PM

Ada County Campus Cryptography: Secret and Not-So-Secret Codes Throughout history, cryptography has evolved from messages written on the shaved heads of servants to highly robust computer encryption. In this course, we will examine the history of cryptography, study several cryptosystems, and practice techniques for cracking those cryptosystems. In addition, we will be examining our current level of dependence on cryptography, for instance, in our banking systems and cell phones. The mathematics required to understand and implement these cryptosystems is the equivalent of four years of high school mathematics. This class is designed to appeal to both history and math/science buffs alike! Media and Self: Shaping Our Beliefs Media sources are central to culture and contribute daily to our communication, socialization, and core beliefs. The "ubiquitous assimilation" of information characterizes the 21st Century. Our beliefs about gender, race, and the consumption of goods from food to clothing to dwellings are influenced by a constant stream of media messages, often times without our conscious awareness. In this course, we will explore these messages and their desired effects and develop ways to discern truth from propaganda, effectively analyze media messages for function, intent and bias, and understand how this information contributes meaning to the lives of individuals and to society as a whole.

Movies that Move Us Do you like films that are inspiring, uplifting, and intriguing? Do you wonder whether movies can move people to action? The classroom, with all its inherent drama, conflict, and diversity, has provided the perfect setting for many books and movies in our culture. In this course we'll explore how education portrayed in cinema and literature compares to the real world, and we'll have some fun along the way. Additionally, we'll discuss how adults learn, in both a traditional and online environment. Students completing this course will be better prepared to succeed in college, and in life. Whether you are you are just curious about how movies influence our lives or perhaps you are considering a career in teaching, join us to uncover the tips and tricks to achievement in school, and beyond. Beyond Downton Abby It's fun to speculate how the other half lived, and none lived more lavishly and more fully than the British aristocracy. Downton Abbey shows us the lives of one family living before and through the interwar period. The family represents a class of people that was poor in cash but rich in power, property, and peerage. This course will look at the people that made up this class, analyzing what levels of power and control they had after WWI and through the interwar period; what ideals, thoughts, and structures made up the aristocratic sensibilities; and how their power declined after WWII. We'll not only look at the mainstream aristocrats but at radical political rebels and empowered women.		$0.00

Why Bodhidharma Traveled West: Zen Buddhism, Jazz, and the Beats; In 1957, Jack Kerouac published his novel On the Road and the "Beat Generation" was officially born in the public consciousness. Part road adventure novel, part epic poem, artistic treatise and sutra, On the Road showcased the attitudes and lifestyle of a counter-cultural movement that placed literary expression, jazz improvisation, mind expansion, individual freedom, a sense of sacred love, and the notion of the Buddhist bodhisattva at its ideological core. Drawing inspiration from diverse sources such as Walt Whitman, Miles Davis, and founder of the San Francisco Zen Center, D.T Suzuki, the Beat Literary movement changed the way writers approached literature, and changed the way a large portion of America viewed American life in the middle of the 20th Century. Through writing, meditation, and academic study of Beat Writers such as Jack Kerouac, Allen Ginsberg, Gary Snyder, Phillip Walen, and Anne Waldman, as well as the writing of Zen Masters, Dogen Zenji and D.T. Suzuki, this course will investigate the influence of Zen Buddhism on 20th Century American Literature.		$0.00

Ada County Campus You Are What You Eat: Exploring Our Relationships with Food This course explores the complicated relationship between humans and their diet, using Michael Pollan's The Omnivore's Dilemma as a guide. In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. We will also learn practical tools and strategies to promote success in college and in life. Online Humor in American Culture "Good satire goes beyond the specific point it's trying to make and teaches you how to think critically. Even after your favorite cartoonist retires or [Stephen] Colbert wraps it up, you're not left believing everything they're telling you." -Aaron McGruder, creator of "The Boondocks" In this course we will examine satirical works such as The Daily Show, The Onion, and South Park to think critically about American culture and to explore important moments and transitions in our history as well as in current events. We will analyze the impact of these works on us as media consumers-how do they change the way we think about our culture and events? Why do so many Americans get their news from humorists instead of or in addition to traditional news outlets? Why does an Onion article prompt us to think about an issue in a way that a New York Times article doesn't? To answer these questions, we will examine satire as a literary genre and art form in political cartoons, film, journalism, television, and social media. Be the Author of Your Life Story Do you love stories? If you do, you're in good company! Stories have fascinated humans for thousands of years; guidance, enlightenment, and inspiration await us there. But what about the most important story you will ever encounter? The story of your own life? Is your life story one of power and accomplishment or one of confusion and impotence? Is that story soundly plotted or does it muddle along unguided? Is it written well, so that you and others can benefit from it? Most importantly, who is the author of your life story? Are you its plot master or is someone else penning the words while you just try to keep up? In this class, we will explore what story is, how stories are constructed, and what makes a story good. By sharing a few great stories we will buttress our understanding. And you will write a story of your own life - both the past you have already lived and the potential you want to fulfill. Join us, pick up the pen, enhance your literary and academic skills, and become the author of your own success at CWI and beyond!
