| The New Dystopian Hero Dystopian stories like Divergent, The Hunger Games or The Giver are set in a time when things have gone horribly wrong in the world, and they warn about where our culture may end up if we aren't careful. In this class we will examine some of these storylines to see what kind of messages they are sending about current American values. Ultimately, we will try to decipher how these books and movies define the new American hero. NOTE: Online sections of CWI are designed for students in fully online degrees. | Fantastical Futures and What They Teach Us Science fiction is a genre that explores not only a fantastical future or alternative present, but it also plays a pivotal role in critically examining our current societies. Through literature and film, we will investigate the larger questions of what it means to exist on earth today. How are science and technology shaping our societies? What are humanity's greatest challenges? What role can science fiction play in helping us understand our own communities and ourselves, and ultimately, what it means to be human? | Reading and Navigating through Idaho Whitewater Idaho is considered the "whitewater playground" for river enthusiasts. The state boasts numerous whitewater river trips that are easily accessible for day or multiday trips. River adventures will provide an experience you will never forget. How you remember the trip completely depends on your planning, preparedness and appreciating the force of Mother Nature. Those who take the time to understand, respect and utilize the energy of the river will undoubtedly return time and again to create memories that last a lifetime. This course will compare the enthusiasm of whitewater rafting to the enthusiasm of higher education learning. Both fields require extensive research, planning, goal setting, mentoring, first-hand experience, support and navigation to have a positive, successful experience. Each concept of whitewater rafting preparation will parallel a concept of preparing for and being successful in college. | Modern Romance Find love and happiness in this class! In our modern world you need to have skills with mobile technology and the internet along with the communication tools to find your true love and win their heart. In this class we will develop the written and verbal communication skills used in romance. In this course, we will learn to learn from current research and your personal experiences to explore how to search for love and keep building true love from your continued learning that will last after the in-love experience has run its course. Moreover, we will learn how to "fight fair" making cultural connections in relationship and how to solve the problem of getting over someone without losing your cool. The college years are when many people meet their significant other. Additionally, there is a necessity in college to make and develop relationships that will use the same type of tools (yet not so intense) as do romantic relationships. With this class you'll better understand all relationships in general and specifically LOVE. You will come away with a game plan for success! | How Not to Die: Surviving the Extremes Why is it so hard to breathe at the top of Mt. Everest and why can't a scuba diver race to the surface from 90 feet underwater? We will explore those topics as well as the extreme survival conditions in the desert and out at sea. How does the human body adapt physiologically to maintain homeostasis when we are challenged to survive? Similarly, how can you survive and thrive as a college student? Let's explore all the ways to make smart decisions in conditions you will face in and out of a classroom. NOTE: Online sections of CWI are designed for students in fully online degrees. |            You Are What You Eat: Exploring Our Relationships with Food This course explores the complicated relationship between humans and their diet, using Michael Pollan's The Omnivore's Dilemma as a guide. In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. We will also learn practical tools and strategies to promote success in college and in life. NOTE: Online sections of CWI are designed for students in fully online degrees. | Your Playbook for Success Let's face it, college is tough-the classes are rigorous and time just doesn't ever seem to be on your side. But what if I told you there were ways to make your college experience more manageable? The truth is, there are skill sets that can work to your advantage, but it's not a one-size-fits-all model. In this course, you will identify and practice the student success skills that work best for you. Some of the topics we will investigate include time management, communication, study skills, critical thinking, planning, accessing resources, and managing your health. By the end of this course, you will have an individualized game plan to help you succeed in the classroom and in life. NOTE: Online sections of CWI are designed for students in fully online degrees. Students who are taking any face-to-face classes should select a face-to-face or hybrid section of CWI.   |                                   |         |            |                      |                    |            |          |  |

| Nampa CampusYou Are What You Eat: Exploring Our Relationships with Food This course explores the complicated relationship between humans and their diet, using Michael Pollan's The Omnivore's Dilemma as a guide. In 21st century America, we have nearly limitless choices about what to eat. But those choices come with hidden costs. What we choose to eat affects everything from our personal physical and mental health to our communities to the global environment. Our diet may reflect deeply held ethical or religious beliefs. It may indicate our economic status or our cultural background. Or it may represent a mindful choice designed to fuel a healthy lifestyle. In this course, we will learn where our food comes from, how diet impacts our health, and what our individual diet choices mean within a global context. We will also learn practical tools and strategies to promote success in college and in life. Hyflex: Courses are offered with added flexibility allowing students to choose between in-person or virtual (remote or online as designated by the class schedule). | The Dead and the Undead Do you love The Walking Dead? Do you know how you would survive a zombie apocalypse? Are you obsessed with Dracula or Twilight? Have you ever thought about why we love zombies and vampires? This course will examine our fascination with zombies and vampires and what that reveals about our culture and ourselves. We will also look at traditions and beliefs surrounding death, particularly in American culture, but also throughout the world. Examining our cultural beliefs about death and our fascination with the undead will lead to examining other parts of our culture through a more critical lens, which will benefit students in all parts of their education, regardless of their primary area of study. This course will culminate in students showcasing analysis and research on a zombie specific area of interest. NOTE: Online sections of CWI are designed for students in fully online degrees. | Media and Self: Shaping Our Beliefs Media sources are central to culture and contribute daily to our communication, socialization, and core beliefs. The "ubiquitous assimilation" of information characterizes the 21st Century. Our beliefs about gender, race, and the consumption of good from food to clothing to dwellings are influenced by a constant stream of media messages, oftentimes without our conscious awareness. In this course, we will explore these messages and their desired effects and develop ways to discern truth from propaganda, effectively analyze media messages for function, intent and bias, and understand how this information contributes meaning to the lives of individuals and to society as a whole. | Heroes and Villains: What does it mean to be a hero or a villain? We will consider both famous and obscure examples of unique individuals and their circumstances. Heroic stories can inspire us to be persistent and resilient in the face of trials, whereas stories of villains can serve as a warning and strengthen our resolve. What factors lead to an individual's success or failure? Various case studies will be examined relating to topics such as culture, opportunity, personality, genius, persistence, and achievement. This is an interdisciplinary course, primarily drawing from sociology, psychology and history. You will be able to develop practical tools to define your own personal and professional goals and determine how you can overcome obstacles to achieve your goals. | Soren Kierkegaard, a philosopher from the 19th century, had some interesting ideas about what it means to live a good life that are surprisingly relevant today. Through a study of some of his main themes of philosophy such as "passionate inwardness," "subjectivity," "the individual," and "the leap of faith," we will go on a cultural treasure hunt to see these very popular themes reflected in the movies, music, and short stories that are all around us. By the time you have finished this course, you will be able to recognize the passions in your own life-as a student and as an individual. | The New Dystopian Hero Dystopian stories like Divergent, The Hunger Games or The Giver are set in a time when things have gone horribly wrong in the world, and they warn about where our culture may end up if we aren't careful. In this class we will examine some of these storylines to see what kind of messages they are sending about current American values. Ultimately, we will try to decipher how these books and movies define the new American hero. | Discover the World; Discover Yourself This course is designed for students to become active and engaged members of the CWI community and also the world. By virtually traveling the world, learning about world cultures through their mythology, music, geography, religion, literature, and food. As we critically analyze how a culture operates, we will reflect on the diversity of the world and the connections that draw us together as a global community. We will consider how the world operates while understanding how we, as CWI students, can operate in our local community. We will discover and utilize our campus resources and engage in the community around us. We will finish the semester by creating a blueprint for our own individual culture and our place in the world. | Really Good Bad Guys From the beginning of western theatre, we see characters who think they are doing the right thing, but as an audience we can see their actions as evil or treacherous. In this CWID class students will look at plays and literature showcasing protagonists with fatal, tragic flaws that turn "good guys" into "bad guys." We will be exploring how the ideas of a hero/antihero in theatre and in modern entertainment has shifted and how our own perceptions of what a protagonist should be has changed drastically in the last one hundred years. While learning about how the role and expectations of a hero have changed over time, students will also be learning strategies for being successful learners in college and beyond. | TED-CWI: Lessons Worth Learning TED, which stands for Technology, Entertainment, and Design, is an organization famous for its "ideas worth sharing" in the form of 20-minute video presentations. Many are familiar with TED Talks and have probably watched a few, such as (insert example of popular talk?). TED uses ideas to inspire change in attitudes, lives, and ultimately, the world. Using Ted Talks and Ted-Ed(ucation) as our platform, this course will provide strategies to be successful in college while simultaneously sparking and celebrating your own ideas about learning and how to apply those ideas to your education. The final project of this course will allow you to showcase your innovation and skills through the creation of your own TED-Ed Lesson on student success skills. | Language and Identity How literate are you? What parts of your life does literacy affect? What role does a person's speech and writing play in first impressions and stereotypes? Does your lexicon determine whether or not you get a job? A date? Should it? What causes linguistic stereotypes, such as French being the language of love and German the language of war? These questions and more will be addressed through movies, social media and literature. We will explore how the basic building blocks of language affect communication and how language and culture impacts a person's identity and their perspective of the world. Students will learn how an awareness of language and identity can help them to better navigate and participate in a multilingual world.
